

According to the State Concurrent Enrollment Handbook, p15 (2016), “Home-schooled students are eligible for concurrent courses with principal permission from the high school they would attend. They are subject to the same rules and requirements that apply to a full-time student’s participation in public education, such that they are counted in the Average Daily Membership.

A Home-schooled student is officially excused from compulsory public school attendance. However, to comply with the rules governing the state concurrent enrollment program, a home-schooled student must affiliate with a high school to be counted in the Average Daily Membership and to ensure that the concurrent grade appears on both a high school and college transcript. These are both requirements for state funding.”

The Concurrent Enrollment program requires:

Cumulative GPA of 3.0 for Academic Subjects and 2.0 for CTE courses.

If a student does not meet the GPA requirement or they are home-schooled and do not have an accredited transcript, they can participate if they have a composite ACT score of 22.

Live Interactive classes Face to Face CE classes

Live Interactive courses taught by a UVU professor and broadcast at the high school. Communicate with microphones during class, email or Canvas message outside of class. Live Interactive courses taught specific times- see class schedule

All course work done on Canvas

There is sometimes little directions and assistance from the professor. You can always reach out to your professor through Canvas messages and email.

Students are asked to follow along in class, take notes and collaborate with fellow students.

Students are asked to be self-disciplined and self-guided to do well.
